

Paul Carlson

Full-Stack web Developer

I am a skilled and driven programmer with experience in both front-end engineering of mobile-first apps and websites as well as back-end architecture to deliver data and support products. As a self-taught programmer, I have developed the skills to quickly and effectively apply new knowledge from libraries to languages. By leveraging my skills as a retail manager and programmer, I have developed and delivered personal smart home automation projects as well as award-winning sites.
